

Ruth Banarier

Everywhere I look, there is a painting to be translated onto paper. How I interpret it depends on the materials I am using. Life changes; why shouldn't the way in which we perceive it?

The only constant in my work is humor -- it is my artist's medium.

Ruth Banarer

Ruth Banarer has spent all of her life in Southern California where the sun brightens the hues in all living things.

Ruth was educated in fine art and spent part of her career in cartooning. She then found time to teach young new artists how to see art in all things.

Together with several other artists, Ruth formed a coop art gallery in Sherman Oaks named Contemporary Images. After ten years of a very successful business, she decided to turn her interests to helping art organizations. She was on the board of Collage Artists of America, Women Painters West and VIVA Gallery.

Ruth has won awards and will continue to use what talent she has to help others see beauty in art”
